Singing in the Rain

As many of you know, Papua New Guinea has been experiencing a drought for the last few months. Water conservation efforts are being made. Gardens are suffering. My student prayer board at school is now constantly covered with requests for rain. But God always provides.

This last weekend a group of over one hundred women gathered at the training center in Ukarumpa for a women's retreat. Not even an hour after the event began, we heard a beautiful sound: raindrops. Renewing and refreshing rain to begin a refreshing weekend and there was nothing to do but dance in it. There was nothing to do but be soaked by God's grace. There may come a day when I no longer look forward to the rain, but for now it reminds me of God's unfailing faithfulness.

The drought continues and is projected to continue through the beginning of the new year, but God is bigger and He always has been. Thank you so much for your prayers and I ask that you continue to pray. The drought has affected Papua New Guineans who gather the majority of their food from their gardens. It also affects language teams who have had to slow down their work or put it on hold during the duration of this drought.

Prayer Requests

Drought

Please continue to pray for rain to end, or at least ease, the effects of this drought. Pray for Ukarumpa as we try to use water wisely. Pray for the Papua New Guineans and the language teams who have had to slow work or put work on hold due to the drought.

Financial Office Volunteers

Ukarumpa is in desperate need of volunteers to help in the financial department. This work keeps the entire branch running. Please pray that God would raise up and send the right people.
